The Republican party is one founded on great moral ideas and directed by conscience. Think of that, ye sinners. A party of the high moral devoted to conscience. These upholders have none of the moral in them that is the defect; but they ought to be excused, for there is not morality enough to go, found, and the Republicans have monopolized it all. There is one consolation however. The Republicans consist themselves altogether with preaching morality and conscience, leaving the practice to other people. It is not an infrequent spectacle to see men make up by loud preaching and profusion for sad failures in conduct.

The eloquent preacher sometimes leaves the humble members of his congregation to illustrate in practice the beauties of his doctrine while he is otherwise engaged. He is even whilst he is this Republican party. We have been astonished at the developments of a practical soul amongst the moral and conscience party. They have told their own stories about the negro. They cheat and rob him. They kick and cuff him, and leave the helpless of his race to starve and perish like dogs. They force or tempt him to fight, to risk his life, to suffer for the sake of Republican doctrine and purposes, or to support the Government. They know that after he has done all this he will be repudiated and shunned, that he will have no rights that the white man will respect. Morality and conscience practice otherwise. Then the conscience organ tells a sad story about Washington. The whole place is drunk. The saints all drink. Their women drink. The independent tells of a lady, fashionable and accomplished, drunk on the streets. The soldiers get drunk, officers get drunk, all the morality and conscience of a big drunk generally. Their poultries, frauds and rascalleries of all sorts, are coming to light daily. Corruption reigns and festers in all departments of the Government, until sharp operations, in which fraud and perfidy and downright robbery have become so common as to be naturally looked for by almost every man. Certainly morality and conscience ought to be preached loud, for they must make a great deal of noise to convince mankind that they are not absent altogether. Republican papers ought to give us a column daily, and speakers a half hour's disquisition on morality and conscience. As it is plain enough they can't afford the practice, let's have the preaching. It is a little bit of noise to keep up the noise.

A little affair has turned up in the New York Customhouse, wherein a prominent loyalist is caught in sundry transactions. He undertakes to defend himself, which he ought not to do, for he makes matters worse. He hates Copperheads, and goes it in the high moral. That is enough for one man. We can't expect all good qualities in one man. He must have some little foibles to counterbalance so much merit.

But there is one part that looks shocking. Some bonds were abstracted, and he lays that on his son to screen himself. It will strike sinners with surprise. Can the loyal, the conscience and moral party do such deeds! Yes, indeed, it takes them to do it. A common sinner would not dare so much.

These men are not slaveholders, or their crimes would not surprise people. They are the loyal, who hate all sin, and particularly slaveholding, which is the mother of all sin; and they hate it because it is sin.

After preying all the vice and all the crimes beyond all example in this country, these men still preach conscience and morality as the cornerstones of their creed. It is no wonder they talk about conscience. The man who obeys his conscience is not reproved by it. He hardly knows he has one. A man with a sound, healthy stomach forgets that he has such an organ. Let him become dyspeptic and he will ready to defend it. The uneasy consciences of these Republicans lead them in like manner to lecture on morality.

We don't know what the country is coming to. We must look to these Copperheads. They don't preach about conscience and morality much, hence it is their mission to illustrate what others preach. Amid all the preaching of virtue by the party in power, none ever so well confirmed the doctrine of total depravity.

CITY NEWS.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Monday, Nov. 16.—Thos. Higgins, charged with being drunk and disorderly, and in $100 for three months.

Henry Hager, disorderly conduct and carrying a deadly weapon, which is contrary to the State laws of Kentucky; $200 for six months. Workhouse.

James Dally, drunkenness and cruel treatment to his son, a little boy eight years of age. He unmercifully used a house on his child. Case continued until to-morrow, and own book taken to answer.

Ann Grimes, who is a lunatic, was presented and tried by a jury, and ordered to be sent to a lunatic asylum when a vacancy occurs.

Henry Ingram was next presented, charged with attempting to murder and rob James Gillmore. The facts elicited in the examination were the same as published in the Democrat at the time. Ingram was required to give bail in $800 for twelve months' behavior. Not being able to give the required security, he was sent to the workhouse.

Cunningham Eaton and Samuel Baker, charged with stealing two miles from Preys Meaus; case continued until Wednesday morning.

An ordinance vs. L. Brooks, by jury, was laid over until Wednesday morning.

Ann Howard, stealing $7 in money, one pair of pants, two shirts, and shoes from Peter White; $200 to answer in circuit court.

Mike McDonald, drunkenness and disorderly conduct; workhouse in default of $100 for three months.

The RAVELS.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, and the great attractions offered elsewhere, there was a large audience at Masonic Temple last night to greet the RAVELS on their first appearance. The performances consist of dancing, juggling, rope walking, comic pantomimes and other performances which we have not space to mention this morning. The wonderful feats of Mons. Agouste astonished all present. He would kick apples from the floor up to the ceiling with his heels without stooping or bending, while his performances with bottles and plates were superior to anything of the kind that we have ever witnessed. The comic violin piece, in which the players interchange instruments, throw themselves into all difficult positions, mount each other's backs, and all the time keep the music going on unbroken, brought down the house. The violin solo of Prof. F. A. Muller was superior to any that we have ever had the pleasure of listening to before. The comic pantomimes are excellent, and in them they introduce many of the old tricks of the RAVELS, which are performed as well, if not superior to the originals. There will be an entire change of programme this evening, and we would advise all who wish to spend a pleasant evening to attend Masonic Temple to-night.

This evening is set apart by the popular managers, Messrs. Dundiff & Flynn, of Wood's theater, for a benefit in behalf of the indigent families of soldiers and the poor of the city. The bill for the night's performance is unusually attractive, and from the general preparation we may expect the most brilliant house of the season. Those who cannot get in, if any, will have the consolation of knowing that their contributions in the shape of tickets purchased will be all as acceptable to the poor. It strikes us that tonight's benefit should call forth from every citizen something. Let them contribute freely, and besides, let all who can be present to enjoy the splendid programme of the night's performance.

SCARCITY OF HOUSES.—Never within the history of the oldest inhabitant has such a scarcity of small comfortable houses existed in this city at the present time. It is next to impossible to obtain a house at any reasonable rate, and, in fact, to get one at all. In the lower portion of the city a large number of new buildings have been put up, and others are being erected, all of which are rented for handsome sums long before they are completed. The demand for small houses is very great, and it would doubtless pay some of our capitalists to invest their spare funds in comfortable houses, such as can be rented at living rates.

FIGHT.—Last evening two men by the name of Dorsey and Harrison made an attack upon a man by the name of Drago, at a drinking saloon opposite the Nashville depot, on Broadway. The latter pitched into the two and gave them a good whipping. Dorsey then drew a knife and cut Drago three times, inflicting three severe wounds, two upon the head and one in the neck. Dorsey was arrested by officer Enlow and lodged in jail. He will have a hearing before Judge Johnston this morning.

JOSEPH S. MITCHELL, one of Morgan's men, and more recently of Capt. Hines' band, was arrested by deputy Provost Marshal J. W. Pruitt, at Frankfort, on last Wednesday morning on the up train, and taken to Lexington and delivered over to Capt. Thos. H. Moore. We have not heard what further has become of Mitchell, but learn that he was for some time confined in the military prison here, and was discharged upon taking the oath.

DROWNED.—A man, whose name we did not learn, but who was employed by O'Bannon, Keen & Co., as a bus driver, fell from the ferry-boat at the landing on Saturday night and was drowned. Search was yesterday made for his body, which they had not succeeded in finding up to dark last evening.

POGHLISTIC.—The shoulder-hitters of this city are becoming greatly interested in the coming "mill" for $10,000, between Heenan and King, which is fixed for the 22d of December. The betting in England is eight to six in favor of Heenan, and these odds have thus far governed the wagers in this city.

NEW COUNTERFEIT.—A new counterfeit, on the Western Reserve Bank, at Warren, Ohio, has made its appearance. The engraving is not quite so good as the original, but well calculated to deceive. The counterfeiters are detected August 29, 1863.

BOARDING.—Two pleasant family rooms can be had, with board, by making immediate application at Mrs. Curd's, on Second street, east side, third house south of Walnut.

BOYS' DAY.—Up to dark yesterday the police had made but one arrest, that of a man who had imbibed too much tangie-foot whisky to navigate.

MR. NUNEMACHER, the messenger of Adams Express company, has our thanks for late St. Louis papers.

FIVE hundred convalescent soldiers were yesterday sent forward to their regiments to fight for the poor of the city.

AN INHUMAN MURDER—AN OLD LADY AND HER DAUGHTER KILLED.—To the long list of dark and bloody crimes we have to add one of the most inhuman and cold-blooded murders ever committed. On last Friday night a party of unknown men entered the house of Mrs. Blunk, an old lady aged 75 years, residing about 14 miles from this city, on the Preston-street plank road, near the line that divides this county from Bullitt, and in cold blood, and without the slightest provocation, murdered Mrs. Blunk and her daughter, a young lady about 19 years of age. After the commission of this most horrible crime they set fire to the house, thus attempting to conceal their crime by the destruction of the bodies of the victims of their fiendishness.

A son of Mr. Blunk, who resides upon the same farm, was aroused by the flames bursting from his mother's house, and rushing to the scene of conflagration he was able to drag from the burning building the bodies of his murdered mother and sister before they were consumed by the flames. This discovered that the mother's head had been nearly severed from her neck, and that the daughter's skull had been crushed in with some heavy instrument, supposed to be an axe. The whole neighborhood was soon aroused, and the country scared in every direction in search of the cowardly murderers. We could learn of no cause that prompted these fiends to the commission of such a horrible crime; but it is supposed that robbery was their object.

We understand that a man, whose name our informant did not know, had been arrested on suspicion of being one of the parties concerned in the crime.

Mrs. Blunk was the mother of E. W. Blunk, one of the conductors on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and of Mrs. W. A. Tabler, of New Albany. In the horror of its atrocity, this is one of the most inhuman and cold-blooded murders ever committed in this State. Diligent search is still being made for the perpetrator of this damnable deed, and it is sincerely hoped that all the parties concerned in it will be arrested and brought to speedy punishment.

Louisville Theater.—Last evening, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, Miss Laura Keene and company drew an excellent house. The new and beautiful domestic drama of "Rachel the Reaper" was rendered in a manner that called for long and continued applause. In this piece the extraordinary versatility of Miss Keene's talents was never more clearly exemplified. Accustomed to see the lady in the higher branches of genteel comedy, we were perfectly electrified by the display of her genius in the lovely domestic character of Rachel the Reaper. The drama is of that order which incalculates virtuous aspirations, and the best feelings of honest domestic life; and such plays are eminently calculated to do more good in the world than all the meretricious trash that are called sensation dramas. The applause received last evening warrants the management to lay it before the public for one night more.

On Wednesday another new Irish drama entitled "The Foster Brother, or the Wives of Ireland."

We give place to the following for the purpose of directing the attention of citizens to this novel and useful improvement in our city:

Mr. Caughan, of the firm of Hollingsworth & Caughan, of Chicago, has successfully sold many articles of clothing on credit on Main street, under the name of National Hotel. These goods are sold by the Canada Fur Co. at reasonable prices for the times. Call and see them.

Ladies should remember that there are great qualities in furs as in clothe silks or any other goods. Their value depends on their genuineness, on the maturity of the fur at the time the skins were caught, and on their shades of color. Ladies, unless you judge by my words, and those of the other dress manufacturers, Messrs. Green & Green, corner of Main and Fourth streets, keep none but genuine furs, and sell them under genuine names. They buy the best goods that are made, and warrant all goods as represented.
